and for Alternative and Flexible Regulation.)

This matter comes before the Public Service Commission of South Carolina (the "Commission") by way of a request filed by Awesome Communications, Inc. ("Awesome Communications" or the "Company") to amend its Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity to reflect that Awesome Communications will be providing telecommunications services through the use of resale and the unbundled network elements platform (UNE-P) in South Carolina.

Awesome Communications was granted a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity to provide resold intrastate interexchange services and resold local exchange telecommunications services within the State of South Carolina on August 21, 2002, by Commission Order No. 2002-592. Additionally, Order No. 2002-592 granted Awesome Communications alternative regulation of its long distance services and flexible regulation of its local telecommunications services. By letter dated November 28, 2002, Awesome Communications requests that the Commission amend the Company's Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity to reflect that Awesome

Communications will be providing telecommunications services on both a resale basis and by means of the unbundled network elements platform (UNE-P).

By its request, Awesome Communications asserts that the Company now intends to provide service through utilization of the UNE-P. Accordingly, Awesome Communications respectfully requests that the Company's Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity be amended to include offerings by way of UNE-P.

Upon consideration of this matter, the Commission finds and concludes that the Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity granted to Awesome Communications should be amended to reflect that Awesome Communications now has authority to provide local telecommunications services in South Carolina on both a resale basis and by means of the unbundled network elements platform (UNE-P).

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED THAT:

1. Awesome Communications, Inc.'s Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity is amended to reflect that the Company has authority to provide local telecommunications services through resale and by means of the unbundled network elements platform (UNE-P).

2. The Commission's records will hereby reflect the amendment of Awesome Communications, Inc.'s authority in South Carolina.

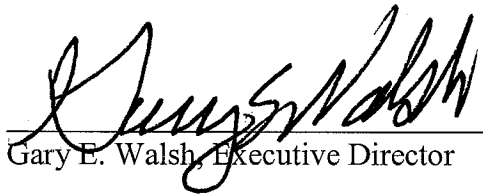

3. This Order shall remain in full force and effect until further Order of the Commission.
